When asked: "What sign are you?" most people respond with their Sun Sign, which is what they've learned from their horoscope in the daily paper. But women are actually best represented by their Moon Sign, determined not just by the date of birth, but also by the hour./

Noted syndicated astrology columnist Jacqueline Bigar, provides women with a tour of their moonscape, and reveals to them the Moon's clues to their nature, personality -- and most important -- the prospect for long-term loving relationships. This unique guide will help you understand who you are, what you yearn for and what type of man will definitely knock your socks. You'll also see whether the way you project yourself is compatible with what you truly expect from a relationship.

Women and Their Moon Signs includes charts to help you locate both your Sun and Moon Signs, then directs you to specific chapters that examine your emotional disposition and outlook on life, your expectations and hopes, your relationship possibilities and comparability issues.
