Just A Little More About Most Everything Tim Wooldridge

From the author of Just a Little About Most Everything comes a second book based on his popular newspaper column on nature, science, and technology. Have you ever wondered what happens when a mosquito is hit by a raindrop? Do you think an elephant can be sculpted on the head of a pin? Do you wonder what a Higgs boson is or what quantum entanglement means? The author has wondered about these things and many others. This fun anthology answers these questions as well as some others that you might not have thought about.
