Solar...By Ian McEwan [Audiobook] (Climate Change/Adultry)

The literary event of the season: a new novel from Ian McEwan, as surprising as it is masterful. Michael Beard is a Nobel prize-winning physicist whose best work is behind him. Trading on his reputation, he speaks for enormous fees, lends his name to the letterheads of renowned scientific institutions, and half-heartedly heads a government-backed initiative tackling global warming. While he coasts along in his professional life, Michael's personal life is another matter entirely. His fifth marriage is crumbling under the weight of his infidelities. But this time the tables are turned: His wife is having an affair, and Michael realizes he is still in love with her. When Michael's personal and professional lives begin to intersect in unexpected ways, an opportunity presents itself in the guise of an invitation to travel to New Mexico. Here is a chance for him to extricate himself from his marital problems, reinvigorate his career, and very possibly save the world from environmental disaster. Can a man who has made a mess of his life clean up the messes of humanity? A complex novel that brilliantly traces the arc of one man's ambitions and self-deceptions, Solar is a startling, witty, and stylish new work from one of the world's great wr

Annie Hendricks:

As a student, I often feel bored with reading. If my teacher expected me to go to the library or even make a summary for some guide, I complained. Just very little students have a heart and soul or real interest. They just do what the teacher wants, like going to the library. They go right now there but aren't reading significantly. Any student feels that reading through is not important, boring, as well as can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is becoming complicated. Books are very important for you. As we know that in this time, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise, words say, ways to reach China's country. So, this Solar...By Ian McEwan [Audiobook] can make you truly feel more interested to read.
