Practice of Acupuncture Hans-Ulrich Hecker

From their own experience with learning, teaching and, practicing acupuncture, the authors of this team know very well where the problems are. Once again, this team focused on the educational situation. They supplemented the previous multimodal system - textbook and refresher sections - by introducing the modular TCM system which serves as a key to applied TCM.

Key subjects in this text include:

- Systematic acupuncture with references to TCM and practical tips
- Topography training following the familiar head-to-toe pattern
- TCM training designed for practice-oriented learning
- Cupping with information on the fundamental aspects, application, and practical tips of this practice
