Excerpt from How to Conduct a Sunday School: Or Twenty Eight Years a Superintendent

This book is at once a history and a prophecy, - a history of splendid service and a prophecy of the better Sunday-school that is to be. To the greater school that's coming it will contribute much of practical value and inspiration. It should be read by every Sunday-school worker everywhere.

Mr. Lawrance has the unique distinction of having had over thirty years' practical experience with the Sunday-school problem, at first hand, during an era of remarkable development in methods, literature, ideals and enrollment. A man's theories and ideals must be transmuted into concrete realities to be helpful. The world is asking of him, "Can he do it?" Let the school our brother has superintended for twenty-eight years make reply.

Given, a growing field, in a typical American city, with average conditions of opportunity, average workers, a few strong leaders, genuine and common difficulties, together with some extraordinary difficulties peculiar to the field, a very modest and always inadequate equipment, secured by striking sacrifices, - given these, what progress and fruit will be secured by the Sunday-school?
